What Hand Luggage Is Allowed on EgyptAir?

According to the EgyptAir carry-on baggage rules, passengers can generally bring one piece of hand luggage inside the aircraft cabin. The allowed weight and size may vary based on your booking class and destination.

For most Economy Class passengers, the cabin baggage allowance is usually limited to one bag with a specific weight restriction. Business Class travelers may receive a higher allowance. Always check your ticket details before flying because international and domestic routes may have different requirements.

Can I Carry a Handbag Along With My Cabin Bag?

Yes, passengers can usually carry a small handbag or personal item in addition to their main hand luggage. A handbag should be small enough to fit under the seat in front of you. Examples of personal items may include:

- Small handbag or purse
- Laptop bag
- Camera bag
- Small backpack
- Essential travel items

Your main cabin bag should fit in the overhead compartment, while your handbag should remain within the personal item allowance.

Egypt Air Baggage Policy for Cabin Bags

The Egypt Air baggage policy focuses on keeping cabin storage organized and ensuring passenger safety. Before packing your hand luggage, consider these important tips:

- Check the maximum cabin bag weight before arriving at the airport.
- Keep important documents, medicines, and valuables in your handbag.
- Avoid packing restricted items in your carry-on luggage.
- Measure your bag size to ensure it meets airline requirements.
- Review your ticket confirmation for the latest baggage allowance.

What Happens If My Hand Luggage Exceeds the Limit?

If your cabin bag is larger or heavier than the permitted allowance, EgyptAir may ask you to check the bag into the aircraft's hold. Additional baggage charges may apply depending on your route and fare conditions.
